

3D Printing Guidelines

Fort Saskatchewan Public Library

FSPL reserves the right to refuse any print requests based on but not limited to the following criteria:

- Printing for commercial purposes.
- Objects that are incompatible with our printer.
- Any weapon in part or whole or any object that can be mistaken for a weapon.
- Any drug paraphernalia in part or whole.
- Infringes on copyright or intellectual property rights.
- Modifications to a file will not be made. All files are assumed to be the final product.
- Some objects will require support material to complete the print to make the item more stable while printing. In these situations, you are responsible for the purchase and removal of this material.

Disclaimer: 3D printing is a new technology, and its use is primarily experimental. We cannot guarantee the quality or usability of objects produced. Objects created by this service often have sharp edges and/or are brittle, are not food safe, and are not suitable for use by small children.
